The film remains the most expensive movie ever made — it almost bankrupted 20th Century Fox. And little by little, we went insane.“Heaven’s GateSimilar to Apocalypse Now, the 1980 action drama Heaven’s Gate spiraled out of control. Photo Courtesy: New Line Cinema/IMDb Actor Val Kilmer clashed with Stanley, and intense arguments led producers to fire him and hire John Frankenheimer as a replacement. The film eventually won an Academy Award for Best Film Editing.Blade RunnerDirector Ridley Scott was excited to work on the film adaptation of Philip K. This project became the 1979 drama Apocalypse Now. The movie fell behind schedule and went over budget. However, when the film premiered in 1989, it grossed $411 million globally — and Keaton became the best Batman to date.Back to the FutureIt took some time to get Back to the Future off the ground. Photo Courtesy: Warner Bros./IMDb Two years later, Aronofsky returned to the project with a smaller budget of $35 million. In 2002, Disney CEO Michael Eisner tried to pull the plug, not wanting another box office flop like The Country Bears. It grossed $750,000 and remains a cult classic to this day.The AbyssJames Cameron’s 1989 science fiction drama The Abyss was an ambitious project. Photo Courtesy: Sunset Boulevard/Corbis/Getty Images Harrison Ford looked bored most of the time on set, and several collaborators described the filming as “torture.” The final shot was captured just as producers arrived to pull the plug. After this box-office bomb, he immediately tackled another difficult film: Waterworld.WaterworldThe 1995 science fiction thriller Waterworld involved many aquatic filming locations, which proved to be an expensive headache for everyone involved. Unfortunately, the film had some hairy problems. Coppola described the filming, “We were in the jungle. By the time he was finished filming, he had 400 hours of available footage. Does anyone know the best sites for watching movies online, for free, that is.Im looking for something fast, ad-free, HD content and secure (malware, etc.) already use Niter.tv, is the best I know and all is in HD, but some movies I couldn’t find there. Fox starring as Marty McFly, but they were unsure he could commit to the film due to his television series, Family Ties. When shooting finally started, filming was a disaster. The 1963 romantic epic starred Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, and the vast budget allowed for the production crew to build elaborate sets. Photo Courtesy: New Line Cinema/IMDb Aiming for realism, Coppola shot the film in the Philippines. Robert Zemeckis and Bob Gale’s 1985 science fiction fantasy was turned down by studios for years. It didn’t help that the movie’s boat had a ruptured hull and really began to sink. Photo Courtesy: Walt Disney Studios/IMDb New director Mark Dindal stepped in to save the project. Director Joe Dante and his creative team dealt with problems caused by the movie’s dozens of creature effects shots. During filming, 50 crew members became ill with malaria, food poisoning and gangrene. Director Darren Aronofsky struggled to find a replacement actor — they eventually chose Hugh Jackman — and Warner Bros. Some shots were so complex they took an entire day to film. Taylor and Burton began an intense love affair that brought a lot of negative attention to the film. They produced the film with marionettes that took four people to operate. The film cost $51 million and only grossed a third of its budget. The shoot didn’t go very well, and crew members described Cameron as a “300-decibel screamer.” In addition, actors endured hours in cold water. It must have taken a long time to edit the movie, but it was worth it. The famous “Here’s Johnny” scene, which featured Jack Torrance (Jack Nicholson) forcing an ax through a door, took three days to film and destroyed more than 60 doors. Photo Courtesy: Warner Bros/IMDb He added, “It really did get maddening after a while. When he told Vice President Sol Harrison about his idea, Harrison warned him the brand was dead and to drop the project. Everyone else didn’t enjoy working on the film, but the director says he “wouldn’t change a frame” of the movie.GremlinsIn the pre-CGI days, 1984’s fantasy horror film Gremlins faced many complications. MORE FROM ASK.COM During the entire production process, Fincher was frustrated by the cast, crew and studio producers. Photo Courtesy: 20th Century Fox/IMDb He had to repeatedly reshoot several scenes, and producers then recut the film behind the director’s back. Kubrick ordered multiple retakes, often shooting scenes more than 100 times. Photo Courtesy: Warner Brothers/Getty Images It was only supposed to take 100 days to film the movie, but production actually lasted 250 days. For instance, tried to watch Venom yesterday and got like 8 “720” sources, but they were all freakin’ cams! Is there a way/website/etc that can alert me when a true 1080p/720 copy of a movie is out?! Thanks Get all the best moments in pop culture & entertainment delivered to your inbox. The result was a remarkable looking film that still only grossed $10 million at the box office.Team America: World PoliceTrey Parker and Matt Stone’s 2004 action satire of the War on Terror, Team America: World Police, was shot with puppets on a soundstage and turned into a demanding production. The movie didn’t take off at first, but it has grown into a cult favorite in the years since its release.Pirates of the CaribbeanProducers thought Disney’s Pirates of the Caribbean shouldn’t have been made. The film cost $190 million, but it was a solid financial hit at the box office, grossing $540 million.Mad Max: Fury RoadDirector George Miller spent 14 years of his life working on 2015’s science fiction fantasy Mad Max: Fury Road. To this day, they have kept their word on that front.The Emperor’s New GrooveIf you think there can’t be any drama producing an animated film, think again. Four weeks into the production, Romanek quit, and Joe Johnston took over. The 1980 psychological horror flick was a lengthy production. It was a disaster, and no one enjoyed working on the film, including the local residents in the Wiltshire village of Castle Combe, United Kingdom. The movie cost more than $17 million and only grossed $6.2 million. Despite the frantic pace, Dindal succeeded, and the movie grossed $169 million.The WolfmanFollowing Universal’s success with the 1999 fantasy The Mummy, director Mark Romanek created 2010’s The Wolfman. The 1994 historical drama focuses on the history of Easter Island. 20 comments I personally download 720p, because they are usually half the size or less than 1080p. While it developed a cult following, it didn’t earn nearly enough money to justify the investment. The movie was a disaster in the making, but it became an acclaimed film of the 1970s. Stanley was especially thrilled when acclaimed actor Marlon Brando signed on to play the title role. Photo Courtesy: Universal Pictures/IMDb In addition, visual effects creators struggled to complete the film’s final scenes. When actor Michael Keaton signed on to star as Batman, fans sent in more than 50,000 letters in protest. The director would sometimes shoot scenes more than 50 times. “We were inventing the technology as we went along, as well as deviating from the script as we discovered new aspects of the Gremlins characters,” Dante explained. The first film, released in 1977, had broad special effects, causing the film to fall behind schedule almost right away. The film went severely over budget due to mechanical problems with Bruce, the film’s fake shark. While the film was well-received critically and grossed $90 million, everyone was glad when it was over.The Island of Dr. MoreauDirector Richard Stanley desperately wanted to embark on his dream project: an adaptation of H.G. Wells’ novel The Island of Dr. Moreau. This river also dried up before filming began. (Anyone thinking maybe the problem was Kilmer?)Apocalypse NowFrancis Ford Coppola was determined to continue his directing success after The Godfather. Despite the difficulties, the movie grossed more than $2 million and remains a timeless classic.The 1982 adventure drama Fitzcarraldo had one of the most difficult productions in film history. Photo Courtesy: Universal Pictures/Getty Images In addition, Harrison Ford was arrested during a bar fight, and someone set fire to Lucas’ hotel room. He insisted on shooting the film with as many practical special effects as possible, and he repeatedly crashed real cars for the film’s action scenes. Photo Courtesy: Columbia Pictures/IMDb Tensions grew between May and the cast. Lead actor Martin Sheen even suffered a heart attack. The movie was director Werner Herzog’s insane story of real-life rubber baron Carlos Fermín Fitzcarrald. He had a fractious relationship with the cast and crew, leading to many heated debates. Star Wars was a colossal hit, and the rest is intergalactic history.TitanicYou would think after James Cameron’s experience filming The Abyss he would have avoided water-based movies. The movie centered around him, but then he dropped the picture due to script disagreements just weeks before production. Instead, Miller used hundreds of storyboards. Despite everything, the movie is still regarded as the most glamorous historic epic ever made.Doctor DolittleThe 1967 musical fantasy Doctor Dolittle was troubled from the start. He decided to adapt Joseph Conrad’s novel Heart of Darkness into an epic war movie about the futility of the Vietnam conflict. Additionally, Cimino insisted on an unnecessary number of takes — once even waiting for a particular cloud to float into view. Several action scenes were scratched at the last minute, and the ending was changed multiple times. Dick’s 1968 novel Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? Seriously? When the riverbed dried up, Friedkin relocated to Mexico, where he built another bridge over the Palapaopan River. A scene shot in Malta required 900 extras. Please tell me what movies you’d recommend, not because you like the movie (“5th Element is the best!”), but because it really shows off the technology. Although the film grossed $139 million, it didn’t come close to the success of The Mummy.World War ZMarc Forster’s 2013 science fiction thriller World War Z required more extras than the average film. I never want to see a puppet again.” Stone and Parker vowed they would never direct another feature film again. However, some of the most famous movies in history had such challenging and frustrating productions that their everyone worried they would be box office flops — or completely scrapped before completion. Photo Courtesy: Paramount Pictures/IMDb At one point, a crew member spiked the lobster soup with a hallucinogenic drug, which sent Cameron and more than 50 people to the hospital. Kubrick was reportedly so difficult to work with that actress Shelley Duvall’s hair began falling out, and she suffered a nervous breakdown. He was glad to be done with the project, and we can’t really blame him for feeling that way.The FountainOriginally, Brad Pitt was supposed to star in the 2006 science fiction drama The Fountain. It had a difficult star (Rex Harrison), terrible weather for filming, wayward animals, expensive reshoots and poorly chosen filming locations. Photo Courtesy: 20th Century Fox/IMDb Director Joseph L. Actor Paul Le Mat suffered an allergic reaction to a walnut, and Richard Dreyfuss’ head was cut open. Photo Courtesy: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer/IMDb The original Tin Man, Buddy Ebsen, had to be replaced by Jack Haley because of an allergy to the aluminum make-up. It’s a miracle the movie was ever completed.Rapa-NuiRapa-Nui was almost doomed from the very beginning. And twice as many movies will fit on my server (not that that’s ever a problem.)Page 2 80 comments Photo Courtesy: Paramount Pictures/IMDb Everyone thinks filmmaking is a grand adventure — and sometimes it is. Photo Courtesy: Warner Bros./IMDb In addition, the film started without an official script. They originally cast Mask actor Eric Stoltz, but he was fired, and Fox assumed the role. But then, three days into filming the 1996 thriller, Stanley was fired. The scene was a disaster — there were numerous injuries and even deaths. Dorothy’s loyal canine companion, Toto, misbehaved, and the Wicked Witch of the West actress Margaret Hamilton was accidentally burned during filming. Mankiewicz replaced Rouben Mamoulian shortly after filming began, and production stopped when Taylor became seriously ill. Cinematographer Jan de Bont nearly had his scalp torn off. Reynolds said, “We had one flight a week from the mainland, and there were times we ran out of food to feed people.” In addition to the filming challenges, the movie only grossed $305,000. The shoot lasted more than a year, and everyone endured dreadful storms and script rewrites. Photo Courtesy: Paramount/IMDb Stone commented, “It was the worst time of my entire life. Photo Courtesy: 20th Century Fox/IMDb At one point, Mastrantonio shouted to Cameron, “We are not animals!” This was in response to the director’s suggestion that the actors should urinate in their wetsuits to save time between takes. Actors make a lot of money to perform in character for the camera, and directors and crew members pour incredible talent into creating “movie magic” that makes everything look simple and fun. From beginning to end, it took him almost five years to get the movie to the big screen. Various directors worked on the project before David Fincher stepped on board. If you watch the film and everyone looks scared, it’s because they were.American GraffitiIf you think a drama about a group of teenagers in the 1960s would be simple to make, think again. However, his songs were ditched after a tepid response, and the original director (Roger Allers) left the project. Photo Courtesy: Universal Pictures/IMDb Producers loved the idea of Michael J. Marshall, who also wrote, directed and produced the film, decided to work with more than 100 live animals — for real, shut the production down. The studio wasn’t especially supportive. “The process of shooting the special effects became so arduous that the scene where Gizmo is pelted with darts was added to the film strictly to satisfy the crew.IshtarDirector Elaine Murphy, fared much better.SorcererDirector William Friedkin is known for going “all out” for his movies. Cast and crew members often worked 70 hours a week, and actors Ed Harris and Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio were on the verge of a mental collapse. Eventually, Reynolds walked away from the project, and Costner finished the film himself.RoarIt’s a miracle no one was killed during the making of the 1981 adventure thriller Roar. It seemed like a hopeless endeavor at times. However, that wasn’t the end of the problems, as Kilmer and Brando didn’t get along either. The film focuses on wildlife preservationist Hank (Noel Marshall), who lives with a menagerie of lions, tigers and other wild animals. Actors suffered from dysentery, and two small plane crashes resulted in additional injuries. The movie has Dustin Hoffman but not much of a cult following. Two stuntmen were also injured, and young co-star Tina Majorino was stung three times by jellyfish. May and her crew were fearful they would be kidnapped, trapped in landmines or caught in the middle of a civil war — if they survived the heat. The film’s budget was around $2 million. The Exorcist director constructed a gigantic bridge over a Dominican Republic river for his 1977 thriller Sorcerer. The film grossed more than $381 million worldwide and spawned a successful franchise.Star WarsStar Wars is one of the biggest franchises of all time. Yikes!JawsThere has never been a movie like the 1975 horror drama Jaws. Despite all the negativity, the film grossed more than $650 million at the global box office and spawned an adored franchise.BatmanWhen comic book expert Michael Uslan started working for DC Comics, he had the vision to buy the rights for Batman and make a serious movie about the Caped Crusader. We had too much equipment. Did Cimino learn his lesson?CleopatraCleopatra was always intended to be big. Photo Courtesy: Universal Pictures/IMDb Rivers weren’t the only drama. Marshall’s wife, Tippi Hedren, was bitten by a lion in the throat, and his stepdaughter, Melanie Griffith, suffered an injury to the face. Photo Courtesy: Filmways Pictures/IMDb Around 70 cast and crew members suffered injuries. Photo Courtesy: Werner Herzog Filmproduktion/IMDb Herzog stubbornly rejected using miniature effects and insisted they shoot the scene with an actual 320-ton steamer. Photo Courtesy: 20th Century Fox/IMDb Construction for the film annoyed residents, who had to remove their television aerials from their homes due to the film’s historical time period. Still, apparently Reynolds didn’t learn his lesson. Looking for the best movie (not demo disc) “print” that showcases how good blu-ray 1080p can be. They also upscale perfect on my 1080p TV, which make them look absolutely stunning anyways. Originally titled Kingdom of the Sun, the movie was supposed to be scored by recording artist Sting. We had too much money. Eisner was sure it would ruin the movie. Photo Courtesy: Warner Bros./IMDb Flights to and from Chile’s mainland were scarce. Instead, he directed the 1997 historical drama Titanic. Spielberg was sure his career was over, but the movie grossed more than $100 million and became one of the most popular movies ever made. (I’m sure if I compared a 1080p to 720p on the same screen, I would see a difference, but is it really THAT big of a difference for 2x+ the file size?)What do you download, and why?EDIT: also my internet is junk, so the faster the download, the better. Photo Courtesy: Warner Bros./IMDb No one supported him, so Uslan started working without a script or a crew. Photo Courtesy: Lucasfilm/IMDb George Lucas blew past the film’s budget and was forced to split his crew into three separate units to finish the film. Crew members called the film “Flaws.” It was only supposed to take 35 days to film the movie, but it turned into 159 days. Photo Courtesy: Universal Pictures/IMDb Actors, including Kevin Costner, were transported from dry land out to the filming locations. First, a crew member was arrested for growing marijuana. Shot in South America, one of the film’s most famous scenes involves dragging a gigantic steamship up a hill. George Lucas’ 1973 film American Graffiti had many behind-the-scenes complications. Photo Courtesy: United Artists/IMDb In the end, Cimino spent roughly $44 million on production costs, and the film only grossed $3.5 million at the box office. Finally, famed director Steven Spielberg signed on as a producer, and the film found a home with Universal Pictures. The number of people on set reached about 1,500 at one point. Executives at Fox were convinced Star Wars would be a flop, but they were wrong — very, very wrong. The movie’s budget was overhauled, and Dindal had to work quickly to morph the film into a critical and financial success. May hasn’t directed a film since.Alien 3The script for the 1992 science fiction thriller Alien 3 was repeatedly rewritten, even after sets were built and production had already started. Director Michael Cimino’s obsession with period detail and accuracy led to repeated reconstructions for sets.
